Finding aid prepared by
Christina J. Zamon

Summary Information

Creator: John Hays Hammond, 1855-1936
Title: John Hays Hammond Collection
Inclusive Dates: 1870 – 1936 (approximate)
Extent: 12 Linear Feet
Language: All materials are in English
Repository: National Press Club Archives
Accession Number: 1977.001
Record Group: MSS 15

Access and Use

Acquisition Information: Upon his death in 1936, John Hays Hammond willed his collection to his son, Harris Hammond to be held by him during the extent of his life and upon his death to be turned over to the National Press Club. The chairman of the Archives Committee found the will, which was published in a Club newspaper entitled "The Goldfish Bowl" and traced the collection to the bother and sister of Harris Hammond. The collection was retrieved from a depository in San Francisco in early 1977.

Access Restrictions: None

History

John Hays Hammond was born March 31, 1855 in San Francisco, California. His father, Richard Pindell Hammond, having retired from the army, became a prominent member of California's political and business communities. His activities opened opportunities to expand his son's interests, the collection of signed photographs of world leaders. Many of the earlier subjects, military figures and presidents, were gathered through the Hammond family connections.

After attending public schools in San Francisco, Hammond left California to study at Yale's Sheffield Scientific School; the Royal School of Mines in Freiberg, Saxony; and later in his life, the University of Pennsylvania. A large portion of Hammond's collection came from acquaintances and professors he encountered while attending these schools, and afterwards as an active alumnus. Following graduation, he was employed with the U.S. Geological Survey in 1880 to study the California gold fields. He also served as a consulting engineer for mining interests in North and South America. Hammond then migrated to South Africa where he contacted Cecil Rhodes and the Barnato brothers, mining magnates in South Africa. He became a consulting engineer for the Consolidated Gold Fields of South Africa, the British South Africa Company, and the Randfontein Estate Gold Mining Company. He was a leader of the Rand faction in 1896, and, after the Jameson Raid, was arrested and sentenced to death. He was released after payment of a $125,000 fine. Many South African military officials, political leaders, and business magnates appear in the Hammond collection of photographs.

After his return to the United States, he began investing in mining properties and irrigation projects in the U.S. and Mexico, amassing a fortune through his efforts. He became general manager and consulting engineer for the Guggenheim Exploration Company. During this period, he was active on numerous government committees which dealt with mining operations. He was the special U.S. ambassador to the coronation of King George V in 1911, chairman of the World Court in 1914, and chairman of the U.S. Coal Commission in 1922. Signed photographs of foreign diplomats, heads of state, and American politicians, were solicited in this period.

John Hays Hammond became an active member of the National Press Club in its formative years and was instrumental in raising funds for the construction of the National Press Building from 1925-1928. Two National Press Club presidents are represented in the collection, Henry L. Sweinhart (1925) and Louis L. Ludlow (1927). Hammond traveled frequently to New York, San Francisco and London, collecting photographs of favorite opera and theatre stars. He also used his friendship with numerous authors and artists to add to his photograph collection.

Throughout his life, his permanent residence was his summer home in Gloucester, Massachusetts, where he gathered photographs of his famous neighbors. John Hays Hammond died in Gloucester June 8, 1936.

Arrangement

All photographs are arranged in alphabetical order and have a corresponding identification number. For example, Edwin E. Abbey is photograph number 1 in the collection. Each photograph is identified by the following information:

Name of subject, Location (box number or map case), and photograph number. This finding aid was recreated from an old finding aid produced in 1991. It is anticipated that this finding aid will be enhanced to include birth and death dates, as well as the photographer or studio that produced the photograph.

Collection Scope and Content Note

This collection was organized in 1991 and contains 683 photographs. It is arranged alphabetically by portrait subject and by format. This is a varied collection of portrait photographs, group photographs, cartoons, letters, photographs of paintings and original sketches collected by and often autographed to John Hays Hammond.

The subjects were active in politics, science, education and the arts between the years 1900 and 1930. Some of the photographs, particularly those of military officials, date back to the late 1800's and are, for the most part, acquaintances of Hammond's father, Richard Pindell Hammond. During this time, Hammond was active as a consulting engineer and involved in mining-related businesses and government commissions. He had access to many government officials, business executives, cultural luminaries, educators and scientists. He used his connections to enhance his photograph collection.

Many of the photographs are signed or embossed by period photographers and photography studios, offering interested researchers a profitable source for the study of originals. The work of Clinedinst, and Harris and Ewing are well-represented. The attached container list indicates the photographer, or studio, and the form of the signature.
